

SPO Households are this generation's answer to the call for a new evangelization.

Pope Benedict and Pope John Paul II have both challenged young people to bring Christ back to the world, back to the universities, and back to their places of work and their homes.

To this end, the men and women of SPO are responding by joining their lives together to proclaim that Christ is alive and to introduce their peers and classmates to the life changing power of the Gospel.

Will you answer the call?

What's it like living in Household?

Life Together

Being surrounded by committed Christian friends is vital for students who want to know, love, and serve God. SPO Households provide the chance to be immersed in a strong Christian environment that cultivates supportive, life-giving relationships. Each week, Household members share meals together, participate in small groups, and fulfill Household responsibilities.

Prayer & Formation

Prayer is an essential element of Household life, both corporately and individually. Household members gather for morning prayer and support one another in developing rich personal prayer lives. SPO teaching nights, retreats, and prayer meetings offer further opportunities for members to deepen their relationship with the Lord.

Service and being on Mission together

Living in community offers numerous opportunities each day to serve and grow in selflessness. Whether it's cooking a meal, doing yard work, or taking part in a service project, Household members have found that learning to lay down their lives for others is excellent preparation for life after college. In addition to participating in service activities, Household members also become active in the mission of SPO through exercising hospitality and welcoming others into their life.

“But as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord.”

Joshua 24:15
